0.1. Preliminary Thoughts on a Framework for Redesign	15
0.1.1. What this Work is not 0.1.2. What this Work is
0.1.3. What We Need to do & Why it would Work
0.1.4. What You Can Do
0.2. Redesigning the Planet?	20
0.2.1. Starting with Global Design
0.2.2. A Snapshot of Global Design
0.2.3. How should We Feel about Global Design?
0.3. Global Design Science as Poetic Production (R. B. Fuller)	24
0.3.1. Allowing Flatscapes & Killing the Planet
0.3.2. Designing Real Living Places: Eutopias
0.3.3. How Can We Redesign the Experiment?
0.3.4. Expanding Poetic Production
0.4. Humanity's Cosmic Role in Restoring the Planet? (Arne Naess)	32
1.0. Preparing for Challenges to Design	35
1.1. Outlining a History &amp; Development of the Planet
1.1.1. Deep History
1.1.2. Current History
1.2. Playing with Limits &amp; Fields	40
1.7.1. Global Physical & Ecological Limits
1.7.2. Fields
1.7.4. Living Fields of Place & Person
At Play in the Field of Limits
1.3. Identifying Large &amp; Long-term Trends: Global Gigatrends	45
1.4.1. Cosmic & Global Trends
1.4.2. Global Ecosystem Trends
1.4.3. General Gigatrends for Global Human Populations & Needs
1.4.4. Positive Trends
1.4.5. Summary: How Will The Trends End?
1.4. Performing Global Thought Experiments	50
1.5.1. Sample Thought Experiments
1.5.2. What if all Urban Concentrations were Arcologies?
1.5.3. Conclusion: Working Experiments
1.5. Educating with Words Numbers Links &amp; Images (in Foundations)	56
1.8.1. Literacy
1.8.2. Numeracy

1.8.3. Ecolacy
1.8.4. Discussion of Filters
1.8.5. Imagacy (Imagery)
2.0. Approaching the Planet with Design	60
2.1. The Planet &amp; Human Design	61
2.1.1. Why design?
2.1.2. What is the Global?
2.1.3. Why Start with the Global?
2.2. What is Nature &amp; Natural Design?	65
2.2.1. Natural Design?
2.2.3. Principles of Nature?
2.2.4. Summary: Nature Patterning
2.3. What is Traditional Human Design?	67
2.3.1. What is Traditional Design?
2.3.2. What is the Difference between Natural & Human?
2.4. What is Ecological Design?	69
2.4.1. Definition of Ecological Design
2.4.2. Differences between Traditional & Ecological
2.5. [Empty]
2.6. What is Global Ecological Design?	81
2.6.1 Design at the Level of the Planet
2.6.2. How is Global Design Different from Ecological Design?
2.6.3. Global Design Components Elements & Variations
2.6.4. Characteristics of Global Ecological Design
2.6.5. Principles of Global Ecological Design
2.6.6. Applied Global Ecological Design as Lessons
2.6.7. Applying Global Ecological Designs to the Planet
2.7. Fitting Global to Local &amp; Regional Designs	102
2.7.1. Global Emerges from & Constrains Local
2.7.2. Are Global Designs Ever Independent?
2.7.3. Leaving Hooks & Flexibility
2.8. Insurmountable Global Problems	106
2.8.1. Water & Drought
2.8.2. Heat & Control
2.8.3. Liberty & Crime
2.8.4. Pollutions: Plastic & Atmospheric
3.0. Facing Nature for Design	110

3.1. Global Design Factors: Planetary Spheres
3.1.1. Geosphere
3.1.2. Hydrosphere
3.1.3. Atmosphere
3.1.4. Biosphere
3.1.5. The Face of Gaia in the Mirror of Humanity
3.2. Global Design Factors: Planetary Cycles	121
3.2.1. The Water Cycle
3.2.2. Carbon Cycle
3.2.3. Oxygen Cycle
3.2.4. Nitrogen Cycle
3.2.5. Phosphorus Cycle
3.2.6. Interactions of Cycles with Ecosystems & Communities
3.3. Global Design Factors: Biome &amp; Landscape Forms &amp; Structures	126
3.3.1. Landscape History & Health
3.3.2. Biomes
3.3.3. Dealing with Change
3.4. Global Design Factors: Ecosystems &amp; Communities	131
3.4.1. Communities
3.4.2. Ecosystems
3.4.3. Populations
3.4.4. Organisms
3.5. [Empty]
3.6. Global Design Factors: Elements &amp; Materials	137
3.6.1. Pure & Relational Elements
3.6.2. Inorganic & Organic Molecules & Materials
3.6.3. Elements as Resources
3.7. Global Design Factors: Processes Flows &amp; Connections	141
3.7.1. Exploiting Processes
3.7.2. Events
3.7.3. Elements as Flows
3.7.4. Duration & Flow
3.7.5. Conclusion: Free Operation
3.8. Global Design Factors: Global Patterns	152
3.8.1. Distribution & Density
3.8.2. Joy at Diversity in the Theater of Life
3.8.3. Living Places as Invested Ecosystems
3.8.4. Natural & Cultural Patterns

4.0. Designing Nature	161
4.1. Global Problems: Atmospheric Change
4.1.1. Anthropogenic Change Atmospheric Heating & Climate Chaos
4.1.2. Pollution & Greenhouse Gases
4.2. Global Problems: Water Flows	165
4.2.1. Water Cycle Restated
4.2.2. Interaction of Cycles
4.2.3. Problems with Disrupted Cycles
4.2.4. Valuing Water
4.2.5. Designing Water Flows
4.3. Designing Global Spheres &amp; Cycles	170
4.3.1. Designing Spheres (Atmosphere to Biosphere)
4.3.2. Designing the Atmosphere & Climate Change
4.3.3. Designing the Ocean
4.3.4. Designing Cycles
4.3.5. Design to Adjust to Change
4.4. Designing Elements to Bioregions	179
4.4.1. Designing Elements & Processes
4.4.2. Designing Ecosystems & Landscapes
4.4.3. Designing Patterns for Landscapes & Biomes
4.4.4. Designing Landscapes & Fitting Humanity Inside
4.5. Global Design Factors: Forests (T. Jacobsen & M. Barnes)	184
4.5.1. Forest Planet
4.5.2. History of Forests: Environment & Use
4.5.3. Forest Participation in Cycles
4.5.4. Designing Global Forests
4.6. Global Design Factors: Animals &amp; Species	191
4.6.1. Wild Animals & Species
4.6.2. Domestic Animals & Species (Michael W. Fox)	194
4.6.3. Interactions in Nature: Exploitation Disturbance & Interference
4.7. Determining Planetary Wilderness Areas Shapes &amp; Locations	212
4.7.1. What is Wilderness?
4.7.2. Do We Humans Need Wilderness?
4.7.3. If We Do, How Much Should we Save?
4.7.4. How Do We Protect It?
4.7.5. Service & Wisdom
4.8. Designing Planetary Patterns	228
4.8.1. Ocean
4.8.2. Atmosphere

4.8.3. Land Area Patterns
4.8.4. Natural Patterns & Connections
4.8.5. Exploitative Patterns & Disconnections
4.8.6. Problems in Patterns
4.8.7. Pattern Solutions
4.9. Designing a Cool Planet	234
5.0. Facing Culture for Design	237
5.1. What is Humanity? Is Humanity Global?
5.1.1. Living Together
5.1.2. Adaptive Patterns: Foraging, Agriculture, Synthetic
5.1.3. Attachment to Place
5.2. Human Limits for Global Design	241
5.2.1. What are Human Limits?
5.2.2. What are Cultural Limits to Cosmologies?
5.2.3. How Do we Deal with Limits? Can we Exceed Them?
5.2.4. Why are Limits Important or Necessary?
5.3. What is Culture? Is Culture a Global Design Factor?	247
5.3.1. Animate & Human Culture
5.3.2. Properties of Culture
5.3.3. Functions of Culture
5.3.4. Effectiveness of Culture
5.3.5. Summary: Dependence & Constraints
5.4. Is There a Global Culture? Is it a Global Design Factor?	252
5.4.1. Functions of Culture/Effectiveness of Culture
5.4.2. The Growth of Megacultures
5.4.3. Emergence of a Crude Global Culture
5.4.4. Is Global Culture Possible? Upsides & Downsides
5.4.5. Creating a Global Frame for Small & Large Cultures
5.5. Global Problems: Ecosystemic &amp; Cultural Collapse	257
5.5.1. Collapse
5.5.2. Kinds of Ecosystem Collapse
5.5.3. Kinds of Cultural Collapse
5.5.4. Coterminal Ecosystem & Cultural Collapses
5.5.5. Discussion of Coterminal Collapse
5.5.6. Patterns of Collapse: Recovery & Renewal
5.5.7. Future Collapse
5.6. Global Problems: Culture &amp; Bad Images	271
5.6.1. Change & Cultural Transformation

5.6.2. Patterns & Renewal
5.6.3. Weaknesses of Cultures
5.6.4. Challenges & Traps
5.6.5. Problems of Individual Cultures (e.g., Global)
5.6.6. Problems Facing a Global Culture—Can it fit nature?
5.7. Designing a Global Cultural Frame Based on Primary Cultures	279
5.7.1. Begetting Problems
5.7.2. Erasing Cultures
5.7.3. Redefining Culture (Strengths & Weaknesses)
5.9.4. Framing Imagination: Holocosmological Framework
5.7.5. Making a Frame for Cultures (Strengths & Weaknesses)
5.7.6. Summary: Myths & Wisdom
5.8. Avoiding Cultural Adaptations &amp; Traps	285
5.8.1. Adaptation & Drift
5.8.2. Drift & Traps
5.9. Global Design Factors: Cultural Solutions	288
5.9.1. Comparing Ecosystems & Cultures (Needs & Health)
5.9.2. Imagining Place: Cosmologies
5.9.3. Imagination & Metabolism
5.9.4. Fitting in Place—Image & Place
5.9.5. Rebuilding Cultures
6.0. Designing Domiture	296
6.1. Global Design Factors: Adaptive Patterns—Agriculture	299
6.1.1. Advantages of Agriculture
6.1.2. Ecological Changes from Agriculture
6.1.3. Cultural Consequences of Agriculture
6.1.4. Disadvantages of Agriculture
6.2. Global Design Factors: Adaptive Patterns—Technology	305
6.2.1. Considerations of Technology
6.2.2. Technology as Extension
6.2.3. Technology as Intensification
6.2.4. Effects of Technology (Control & Risk)
6.2.5. The Promise of Technology
6.3. Adaptive Patterns—Urbanization &amp; Civilization	309
6.3.1. How did Civilization Rise from Cities?
6.3.2. Changes from City Living
6.3.3. City as an Ecosystem
6.3.4. City as Advantageous Cultural System

6.3.5. Intensification & Civilization
6.3.6. Discussion of Cities & Civilization: Ideal or Trap
6.4. Adaptive Patterns—Civilization &amp; Industrialization	318
6.4.1. Industrial Growth
6.4.2. Industrial Intensification
6.4.3. Problems of Industrial Civilization
6.4.4. Possibilities for Industrial Civilization
6.5. Global Problems: Conversion &amp; Interference	323
6.5.1. Cultural Conversion of Places
6.5.2. Humanity as an Agent of Change
6.5.3. Interference: Personal to Pandominant Industrial
6.5.4. Practicing Noninterference
6.6. Redesigning Adaptive Patterns: Agriculture—Industrialization	332
6.6.1. Calculating Optimum Global Human Populations
6.6.2. Redesigning Agriculture
6.6.3. Redesigning Cities as Urban Ecosystems
6.6.4. Redesigning Industries
6.7. Global Problems: Technology	355
6.7.1. Several Consequences of Technology
6.7.2. General Problems with Technology (Effects & Dominance)
6.7.3. Physical Problems with Technology
6.7.4. Cultural Problems with Technology
6.7.5. Pollution: The Example of Plastic
6.7.6. Conclusion: Questioning a Machine Image
6.8. Design of Global Technology: Wild Lives &amp; Living Technology	372
6.8.1. The Mastery of Technology (Alan R. Drengson)	372
6.8.2. An Ecological Cosmology for Technological Civilizations
6.8.3. The Redesign of Technology
6.8.4. Hybrid Technology with Life
6.8.5. Conclusion: Adaptation or Relaxation
6.9. Practicing Ecosystem &amp; Planetary Medicine: Gaian Ecohygiology	399
6.9.1. Brief History of Medicine
6.9.2. Strengths & Problems of Medicine
6.9.3. Extensions to Medicine
6.9.4. Ecosystem & Global Ecosystem Medicine
6.9.5. Summary: A New Category of Medicine
7.0. Managing Design Levels	415
7.1. Global Design Factors: City Shapes &amp; Extents (P. Soleri)	415

7.1.1. Ecovillages
7.1.2. Ecocities
